- iv. Obtaining scalability of business operations with technology

This workshop will be led by regional partners and global experts from McKinsey & Company, a world renown top management consultancy. Founded in 1926, McKinsey is the oldest and largest of the world's three largest strategy consulting firms by revenue.

About McKinsey & Company

Every day, around the world, we partner with our clients to set bold strategies, unlock the potential of their people, embed transformative technologies in everything they do, and innovate sustainably. The impact we deliver helps clients achieve enduring change in their capabilities and performance—and speeds up the transition to sustainable and inclusive growth. “This is not an easy task, but our ambition is to help organizations and their leaders make it a reality”.

A typical McKinsey engagement could last between two and twelve months and involves three to six McKinsey consultants. An engagement is usually managed by a generalist that covers the region the client's headquarters are located in and specialists that have either an industry or functional expertise.
